

This newsletter is for the members and by the members. "By" the members will mean, that most of the contents will be contributed by the members themselves.

Your contributions are invited on your outings, your trips, your visits with associated societies; reports on visits from other societies to us; reports on nature-books, nature-conservation lectures; in short on everything you find of interest in connection with nature and nature-conservation.

It means also that with this newsletter our office-bearers will have an outlet for short communications and informations.

Our President, Secretary and Treasurer can report on special items, for which there is not always sufficient time in the meetings when we have a guestspeaker. Also the speakers for forthcoming meetings can be announced apart from the monthly notice in the local paper.

Our Hutmanager and Librarian will have most likely important announcements and most likely important requests to make.

All you people who have something to say, do send your contributions for this newsletter to:

Martin KAUB, 1 Clarencest.KATOOMBA; Phone: LEURA 4-1754.

Activities of Members:

A small party of our members went on the week-end of 18 - 19 April with members of the Wildlife Preservation Socy of Austr. to KANANGRA/BOYD National Park to view destruction to the Park caused by illegal logging. M. & B.Kaub have committed themselves to go a bit deeper into these matters and together with Mr.Milo Dunphy, Hon.Secr. of the Nat.Parks Ass., they are trying to influence the government about the desirability of having revoked a decision that roughly 5000 acres of the Park are being handed over to the Forestry Comm. of NSW for the planting of Radiata Pine. We hope that we can report on this matter in our next newsletter more extensively.

Special Visitors to our Conserv.Hut.

During the schoolholidays our Hut was extremely busy with large groups of young people doing the walk; also visitors from interstate and overseas. We were pleased to welcome visitors from Burnie, Tasmania and to get news of our friends Masie & Laurie Melbourne of Burnie-Field-Naturalists Club. Also two visitors from Jugo Slavia were introduced to many forms of Austr.Wildlife.

Hut Display.

Just recently nothing new was added to our permanent exhibition. A visitor to the Hut, Mrs.C.A.White has given assistance in naming some of our shells on display and has kindly offered further help.

Literature.

A good supply of conservation literature is available at the Hut by courtesy of the Gould League to which Organisation our sincere thanks are extended. Brochures on Parks & Reserves have been supplied by the Nat.Parks & Wildlife Service, for which we are very grateful. All brochures on hand are obtainable at the Hut.

Library.

The Society is building up its own library of Naturebooks and related subjects. Due to shortness of space we will have to mention titles of books and conditions for loan in the next letter.

Readers Notes.

Children staying near the reserve during the holidays lost their byros; they looked everywhere, then when gathering wood in the bush near by they found the blue topped pens in a bowerbirds "nest" with blue feathers, buttons, glass etc. (the "nest" was ofcourse the birds playground!) The family were extremely interested to borrow the "Bird Bander" and read Rita Vellengas notes.

Two local boys who wish to become members of the Society have found Aboriginal Axe grooves on Kings Tableland.

BUDAWANG RANGE NATIONAL PARK PROPOSAL.

Our Society received a request for the support of a renewed proposal from the National Parks association for the dedication of BUDAWANG National Park.

We quote from a report by Colin Watson in the National Parks Journal:

"10 - 40 miles inland from the coast between Nowra and Bateman's Bay lies a large area of rough, scenic, undeveloped country. Already in 1962 the N.P.A. submitted a national park proposal to the Government. Nothing happened until the Nat.Parks & Wildlife Service was established in 1967. Then a proposal was put forward by the Service to extend the Morton National Park to cover much of this area. The additions would extend on the southern side of the Shoalhaven to include the spectacular gorge country (e.g. Ettrema Gorge) between Shoalhaven River and the Nowra-Braidwood Road over Sassafras Mountain, and would continue to the south to include parts of the Budawang Range and the head of the Clyde Valley. This would create a park of about 300,000 acres - a very worthwhile size. We are still waiting for this to be implemented, but we believe it to be close.

"The area of the Budawang Range we look like getting as a park initially is far short of what is desirable. It will include much of the scenic Rim country around The Castle and extend to the west around the Corang River and Corang Peak, but it will exclude most of the valleys, particularly the Clyde Valley, as these are forested and could supply a timber or wood chip industry. Also, much desirable country is held by the Commonwealth as an Artillery Range, and there is little hope of obtaining any of that at this stage. However, a small park is better than no park, and is also a nucleus to which surrounding areas may be added at a later date. (Under the Act a new park proposal has to go before Parliament, but additions can be made by proclamation in the Government Gazette - a much easier process)."

Suggestion to prospective visitors to the area: make base-camp at Tanderra where there is plenty of open space, timber and water. The road in has recently been improved; walks can be taken from there; the route passes a patch of rainforest in which may be seen, besides other things, good examples of possum wood (Quintinia sieberi), a tree which starts life as a parasite on tree ferns. There is an easy climb on to Quilty's Mountain which leads on to an aboriginal bora ground where stones have been laid out in patterns over a large area of bare rock. Endrick Trig. station is on Quilty's Mtn, from where extensive view can be obtained. There is also Little Forest Trig station, frequently visited by naturalists for observing birdlife. From there fine views of Tatalerang and Pidgeon House Mountain can be had. Its ruggedness, peace and scenic beauty have attracted bushwalkers for considerable time. From the Pacific Highway the top of Pidgeon House Mtn. just shows up as a glimpse. From the coast it can be seen better. Pidgeon House Mtn was named by Captain Cook as he sailed up the coast on his momentous journey of 1770."

Map of the area: The Norther Budawang Range, Paddy Pallin. Ulladulla, Forestry Commission. (Both maps will soon be reprinted.)

This is an exciting proposal for a great reserve. On the coast is Cudmirrah reserve, bordered by Conjola State Forest (luckily still a Eucalyptus forest); further inland a few smaller state-forests and at the South Termeil State Forst; at the north Morton National Park.

The creation of Budawang National Park would be a great stride to one big natural area. Our Society strongly supports the N.P.A. proposal; a few brochures are available at the Hut on the Budawang National Park.
